

Stacey McCullough, PharmD is the Senior Vice President of Pharmacy for Tennessee Oncology, PLLC one of the nation's most prestigious community-based oncology practices. She works with executive and clinical leadership in synchronizing business acuity to clinical excellence and developing strategy for system implementation across multiple clinical sites. A passion for patients and collaboration with payers, pharma and technology has catalyzed her successful and innovative approach to the development of Park Pharmacy, a medically integrated URAC and ACHC accredited pharmacy.

Dr. McCullough is a member of the Pharmacy advisory board (COPA) for Community Oncology Alliance (COA), the executive council for National Community Oncology Dispensing Association (NCODA), ASCO and Tennessee Pharmacy Association (TPA). She serves on the editorial board for Pharmacy Time's Directions in Oncology Pharmacy, has presented at national COA, NCODA, PCOC, AVBCC, AJMC, ASCO Quality, and numerous GPO and pharma conferences. She is published in Direction in Oncology, AJMC and JOP, been interviewed for NPR and presented posters and abstracts at NCCN and ASCO Quality and is actively engaged in numerous efforts for advocacy, advancement and integration of pharmacy practice.

She received her BS and Doctor of Pharmacy degree from Auburn University and completed pharmacy practice residency at the University of Tennessee – Knoxville.